Reveal Schedule Of Programs To Be Given On College Stage

Bowman Advances In Army Air Corps

"Keep 'em flying!"

Another St. Joe man has answered his country's call to arms and is now, in the U. S. Army Air Corps.

Wendell C. Bowman, better known as "Wink," started out as a

Adopting a policy that would give the student what he wanted in entertainment here in Collegeville has enabled those in charge to give evidence that St. Joe students will have a most enjoyable time in their visits to Alumni Theater this year.

It all came about after Stuff conducted a poll to discover what the students themselves wanted in the line of entertainment. The program for this year has been modeled after the desires expressed by the students in that poll which was taken near the end of the last academic year.

Program Follows Suggestions

After the suggestions had been tabulated, those that were along the same trend were accepted as the demand. The following program is a result of that demand.

On October 18, Miss Myrtle Ross will appear with a program of monologues.

Theodore Maynard, poet, critic, biographer, and leader in the revival of Catholic Literature, will appear Oct. 30.

On Nov. 15, the Coffing Sisters, marimba players and vocalists, will perform.

An authority on aviation, Kent Sagendorph, will give a lecture and demonstration on Dec. 13.

The Kilty Trumpeteers, five sisters, will give a recital on Jan. 7.

On Jan. 23, Loring Campbell, a magician and ventriloquist, will entertain.

George Lyons, expert harpist, will demonstrate his ability on Feb. 18.

On March 18, the Verne Slout Players will perform.

The Pearl Kemp Ensemble, concert artists, will appear April 15.

3 Serve Uncle Sammy

Word comes from Fort Monmouth, Red Bank, New Jersey, that three former St. Joe students are now serving their country in the armed forces at that place.

Privates Jack Fisher, William Kozelski, and Joe Cooper are all stationed at the New Jersey cantonment. They would appreciate hearing from their friends at Collegeville.

LATE FLASHES

According to word just released there will be a Student Trip October 18 to Bloomington for the Illinois Wesleyan game. This engagement is Wesleyan's Homecoming Tilt. Further plans will be announced soon.

Collegeville will enjoy a free day Monday, October 13, since Columbus Day falls on a Sunday this year.

Curtain Club Plans Drama Production

Meeting in their clubrooms in Xavier Hall, September 20, the Curtain Club elected Robert Lechner to act as president for the year.

Other officers elected were: Clement Kuhns, vice-president; Louis Applehans, secretary; Raymond Grevencamp, treasurer; Bernard Mullen, critic. Elected to the executive office were Ralph Bushell, Cornelius Fenton, and Raymond Zukie.

Plan Production

The club — a dramatic society with membership limited to students of the Precious Blood Congregation — is making plans for producing "First Legion," by Emmett Laverty.

The Rev. Robert Koch, C.P.P.S., moderator, urged that all members cooperate to make this one of the most successful years in the organization's history. Father Koch announced that tryouts for the play will begin as soon as the script arrives.

Announce Jim Ikovic New Editor of PHASE

At a meeting last year the outgoing Phase officials named John Fehrenbacher and Jim Ikovic, Editor and Business Manager, respectively, for the second edition of the annual yearbook.

This summer Fehrenbacher joined the Coast Guard and is now stationed on the West Coast.

As a result, Ikovic moved up to the editor's chair and Frank Benchik was named Business Manager.

Ikovic is from Gary, Indiana; and Benchik from East Chicago, Indiana. Both are seniors.

The dummy for this year's Phase is now in their hands. The task of selecting the rest of the staff will be taken care of later.

Commerce Club Meets

There will be a meeting of the Commerce Club, Monday, October 6, at 7:00 p.m. Following the meeting, at 8 o'clock, the Rev. Cletus Dirksen, C.P.P.S., will give an address. All those interested in joining the club are invited at 8 o'clock.

Initiation Quicksens As Freshmen Respond To Traditional Board

The V. Rev. Aloys H. Dirksen, C.P.P.S., college president, and Rev. Clarence Kroekel, C.P.P.S., moderator of the Raleigh Club, were the principal speakers at a meeting of the freshman class conducted by the Raleigh Club officers in the college theater, Monday evening.

Charles Hankish, president of the Raleigh Club, introduced Fr. Dirksen, who spoke briefly on the merits of the club and urged that all freshmen join. He also lauded the freshmen for their cooperation, courtesy to faculty members, and attendance at mass and communion thus far, and asked that they continue their fine spirit in the future.

Elected Rookie president at the opening session of the Raleigh Club initiation Tuesday evening was Leonard Bruno. Reigning with Bruno, as Rookie cheerleaders, are Bob Morrison, Oscar Rinderly, and Bill Ronan. Wednesday afternoon, all Rookies went to Rensselaer where they "enjoyed" town-permission under the watchful eyes of the boarding committee.

First it was slack suits, then "butch" haircuts, and now the latest fad to hit the college campus is the wearing of green hats.

For some unknown reason the only group to adopt this fashion have been the freshmen. It has been rumored that the impending national emergency is the reason for the extraordinary price of the headpieces, but other sources say that the crisis is a bit more localized. The real reason is that the coffers of the upperclassmen are none too full.

The wearing of the "green" has not been limited to the Irish members of the newcomers only, but students of many nationalities have been observed gallavanting around the halls even to the extent of wearing them in the showers. Some rookies have been seriously considering wearing their lids to bed.

Will Give "You Can't Take It With You" As Opener October 28

Plans are now being rushed by the Columbian Literary Society to produce Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman's comedy hit, "You Can't Take It With You," in the College Theater, October 28.

Those who saw the motion picture version of this famous stage play will have somewhat of an inkling about what is to come. This production offers everything from good drama to high comedy. In the way of properties, its scenes call for such varieties as snakes and fireworks.

Glimpse Of America

For all its comedy, "You Can't Take It With You" is a glimpse of the very soul of America, and it does propound some very sound philosophy. Incidentally, the play captures more of the spirit of the original idea than the motion picture version ever hoped to achieve.

Here's the cast:

Penelope Sycamore	Mary Cengel
Essie Carmichael	Joan Wood
Rheba	Caroline Nagel
Paul Sycamore	John Schlereth
Mr. DePinna	Frank Stodola
Ed Carmichael	Harry Roehrig
Donald	William Cahill
Martin Vanderhof	Robert Bower
Alice Sycamore	Joan Roy
Henderson	Robert Hogan
Tony Kirby	Ralph Parker
Boris Kolenhof	Chas. Ploszek
Mr. Kirby	Kay Kennedy
Mrs. Kirby	Anita Putz
Three Men	John McCabe, Leonard Bruno, Frank Bohm
Olga, the Grand Duchess	Helen Feldhaus

Feminine roles in the play are taken by members of the local Catholic Youth Organization. Miss Cengel is a member of the Whiting C.Y.O. players.

It's "Hut Sut Rawlson!"

Freshies gather around to practice choral work under the critical eyes of upperclassmen as initiation goes into full swing.

THAT'S THE SPIRIT. The welcome-home celebration—informal though it was—was the best indication of campus spirit Collegeville has witnessed this year. The junior class is to be commended for the banner they erected in the refectory. The whole student body comes in for a round of applause for the enthusiasm they showed the returning victors. But why wait till the team returns victorious? Why not a pep session before every game to set the stage for victory?

DON'T FORGET THE BOYS in our armed forces. A letter is the next best thing to seeing a face from home. Remember your friends—particularly old college chums—as often as possible. Time weighs heavily on a soldier's hands when he is far away from home, his day's work is over, and it's a five-mile hike to the nearest town. Put your soldier-friends first on your writing list. Keep them informed on activities around the campus. They'll appreciate it.

THIS IS IT!—the middle of initiation week, as rookies take the necessary punishment that will make them full-fledged members of the Raleigh Club. Just a word of advice to the rookies: Take it all in good spirit. Always do what you are told to do. Initiation can be a lot of fun if you want it that way. Cooperation, and a good, healthy grin are the best assets for making it so.

ADVERTISING IS ESSENTIAL to newspapers; and newspapers to advertising. So far, no medium has been devised that will successfully replace the newspaper in this vital function. Radio has entered the commercial field, but the ether waves are not nearly as permanent a reminder as the newspaper. For that reason, merchants are careful to see that their stores are well represented in the advertising columns of their local papers.

Because advertising is so general, some are prone to believe that its force has been somewhat diminished. But think of what would happen if there were no advertisements: The potential buyer would be at a loss to find a place where he could make his purchases, and the merchant would suffer marked loss. The power of advertising is unquestioned in the minds of those who have studied the situation. Sellers know that if they don't advertise, buyers will go to stores that do. Buyers believe that sellers who are willing to advertise their product must be really proud of their wares and anxious to serve the consuming public. To our readers, we say, Patronize the Advertisers.

STUFF

Following the Flickers

With Dick Schreiber

WITHIN TWO WEEKS Collegeville moviegoers will have an opportunity to see Orson Welles' much-talked-about "Citizen Kane." After evading the threat of a libel suit (by newspaper mogul, Wm. Randolph Hurst) the picture opened for the big city audiences. Reviewers all over the nation acclaim the film for its fine dramatic sequence and its remarkable—if somewhat radical—photographic methods. "Citizen Kane" is really something to look forward to seeing.

Pleasant news, too, for her numerous fans, is the headline that tells of Shirley Temple's return to screenland. The big problem now is whether Shirley will be able to bridge the gap between rather infantile roles and the near teens. Time will tell. So on to the reviews.

Starts Friday at the RITZ

Jane Darwell and Brenda Joyce are cast in "Private Nurse," the story of an old nurse guiding a younger member of her profession through the trying days of her first professional experience. Legion Rating: A-2.

This would be a good picture for a double feature bill; by itself it is rather weak. Watch for Ann Todd, though, who steals the show in the scene where husband and wife are reunited. That portion of the film, at least, has good pathos.

Sun., Mon., and Tues. at the RITZ

Romance, music and skating come to the screen in "Sun Valley Serenade," featuring Sonja Henie and John Payne.

Thrown in for good measure is the down-beat maestro, Glenn Miller and all the lads. Legion Rating: A-2.

Sonja is cast in the role of a helpless (imagine that!) little refugee. And Johnny Payne is supposed to play guardian angel. Then there are Milton Berle and Nichols Brothers. If you go in for the spectacular you'll like this picture.

Sonja Henie

Sun., Mon., Tues., at the PALACE

"Belle Starr," with Randolph Scott and Gene (Tobacco Road) Tierney, is a fine old version of the stern days following the Civil War. Miss Tierney proves that she can do a splendid job of acting if given the right kind of character. For all its tragic ending, you'll enjoy this feature. Legion rating: A-1.

Starts Wednesday at the RITZ

The dramatic story of a mobster who becomes the fightingest man in Uncle Sammy's Marine Corps—that's "Down in San Diego," starring Bonita Granville and Ray MacDonald. These stories always follow a set formula, but they are always full of good, clean action. Legion rating: A-1.

Joe Rookie Writes Home About College Life

By George Lundy

Rookie Joe Awed by Upperclassmen

Dear Folks,

I went up town last Sunday. Gee, it was fun! I met Ed Fleming, one of the distinguished seniors, who showed me how to get a date for the dance that is coming up on homecoming. He said he would let me in on his technique . . . the only trouble is that I can't sing as well as he can. It seems that his method of getting a date, as he demonstrated last Sunday night, is to play the piano and sing to the girls at Lunghi's. I agreed with him that he had the best way but asked if he knew of any other way that a common guy like myself could get a date . . . he didn't.

After leaving Lunghi's I accidentally bumped into a stone wall which was in the middle of the sidewalk . . . after I regained consciousness I apologized to Augie for having walked into him. Augie said that he was sorry that he was standing crossways on the sidewalk and that next time he would stand sideways so that people could pass without stepping into the street. Next I saw Ed Resetar, whose dome was supporting a two-inch mop . . . the envy of every brush salesman.

"Where did you ever get that padded hat rack?" I asked him.

"Part of my original equipment . . . comes in handy with defense program," he exclaimed.

He is a very smart fellow . . . why he even told me how to use a tape-worm to measure things with. Then he asked me if I ever heard the songs that a hat band plays. He said that was a secret that only the upperclassmen were capable of comprehending.

Well folks, this week leaves me with a profound admiration of the older students of St. Joe . . . I can hardly wait until next year when I'll be just like one of them . . . which one I don't know.

Your son,
Rookie Joe.

Initiation—Pro & Con By Those Suffering

By John Ford

In spring we naturally expect to see a lot of green coming from seemingly nowhere. But in fall it is something to ponder on, to worry about, to discuss—that is, in just about every quarter but a college campus. There, you will find the upperclassmen with paddles in hand and you will certainly find each new collegian sporting a brand new green hat. St. Joe is no exception.

Initiation is close, very close, at hand. So this week Stuff went to these victims, the freshmen, to discover what they thought of the process of seasoning; in what manner they felt it should be conducted; how they thought it should be done.

John Carmody, from Indianapolis, said, "I believe (and hope) that initiation is a means to an end. (He didn't say what end.) We meet the upperclassmen while they have their fun. After all, we freshies can have the fun next year."

From another of the, at present, humble men, came this reply: "Just so long as it is done in fun and with an air of friendliness I feel that it will be a fine experience." This fine attitude was confessed by Joe Cannon, from Peoria, Ill.

Larry Theis, from Bloomington, Ill., expressed this opinion: "Just so the physical punishment is not too great I don't think most of the fellows will mind it."

Meanwhile there is an objection raised by Cliff Riede and Bob Birkel, both from Louisville, Ky. They feel "that initiation should not be held at all times of the day." Rather, they feel there is a time and place for everything.

Dan Reinman, from Lipsic, Ohio, had this to say, "I feel that it is something to look forward to. However, I do feel it should be more organized."

Probably the wisest utterance came from Gerald Curran, from Youngstown, Ohio, who says, "I am trusting to the judgment of the upperclassmen."

All in all, the freshmen seemed to feel it is an experience that would be much more pleasant to look back upon than to look forward to.

Senior Sketches

By John Feicht

Kentucky's contribution to the senior class of St. Joseph's is Aloysius Ballard, a pre-medical student. Coming from Holy Cross where he attended Holy Cross Catholic High School, Al entered this school as a freshman in the fall of '38.

An ambitious young man, this senior has housed the thought of being a doctor since his high school days. As yet Al has made no definite plans as to where he will attend Med school. During his three years on the campus at St. Joe, Al has carried approximately an eighty-five average in his major subjects. So far his favorite subject has been Embryology, but he feels that Bacteriology, which he is taking this semester, will carry with it many interesting moments.

Al's interest doesn't just stop with his classes; he also is active in extra-curricular activities. He has held membership in the C.L.S., Raleigh Club, and this year is treasurer of the Albertus Magnus Society. Although he hasn't played on any of the varsity teams, Al did play intramural football and basketball during his first years in college. By the way, he was a four-year man in basketball and baseball in high school. Working on the Student aid program, Al is a supervisor in the kitchen.

The draft doesn't seem to worry this one senior because he hasn't registered as yet.

Campus Capers

Comes the dawn of another week and the Pumas streak runs to two, and You and I just run down . . . While on the subject of the pigskin it can't be overlooked that Plowin' Pete attained not a little publicity in that skit presented in the auditorium—but anyone knows that Pete can do better than that . . . It seems that a new wave has swept the campus and that it took along the fluffy locks of Risch and Deacon Jim . . .

One could hardly think over the past week and overlook that feature angle of Ray Boland and John Schlereth having themselves a great time, and if you don't believe us, then ask Bill Browning who is said to have also had a "finger in the pie" . . . And of course this would not be complete without mentioning the fact that Red Cahill was up town on senior night displaying his charms, but there is false rumor around as to who received that gracious, beaming smile. . . .

On the twenty-second of Sept., a former CLS member trot the last mile in the local church—while on the campus another CLS'er is taking a round of ribs about the local citizenry—but don't worry, Ralph, we won't mention your name . . . Bill Gay and his roommate, Lundy by name, seem to have earned this week's rating of the No. 1 wolves. And in recognition of this, to George we recommend that she sing to him the song she so ably sang in last year's operetta. . . .

Now let's add the name of Joe Beall to the list of those who want to know more about some Stella. . . . Or could Krol tell him all about it? . . . And then we come to the distinction of using the first freshman name in this hitherto nameless column . . . Enter one Bob Kelly, handsome and debonair, who rates this on account of his fine showing when the mail comes around . . .

Art Gilpin seen in the midst of that hurry-scurry that occurs around noon calmly reading a slightly scented letter . . . And on the envelope was a college name, St. Mary's, and we don't think that it was postmarked Winona, Minn. . . . Correction — there is some doubt as to whether Art was "calmly" reading the letter . . .

Some of these journalism studes ought to take a couple of minutes and take a gander at Ed Fischer's interesting write-up in last Sunday's Our Sunday Visitor . . . And so we leave you now — happy?? Sorry, brain won't function and so again no gag line — or have there ever been any?? Be good . . .

Puma Prints

By Donald Casey

"A team that won't be beat can't be beat." This old axiom in the world of sports seems to best describe Coach Joe Dienhart's fighting band of Pumas, who, with limited substitutions, have rung up consecutive victories over two supposedly stronger opponents, Butler and Toledo.

Seven games — Loras, Central Normal, Illinois Wesleyan, Detroit Tech, Carroll, St. Norbert, and Valparaiso — remain on St. Joe's schedule. If the Pumas continue to play the brand of ball they have shown so far, chances are good for an undefeated season.

Scollard Leads Scorers

Big Nick Scollard holds the unusual distinction of leading his team in scoring from the end position. This may seem unusual to the average fan, but anyone who is familiar with Nick's playing ability knows that the husky wingman is entirely capable of the feat. He is a powerful and fairly accurate place-kicker, a hard man to bring down on an end-around play, a good pass receiver, and is in there all the time on defense in case the opposition should fumble behind their own goal line. Nick scored a touchdown and added the extra point in the Butler game, and his field goal against Toledo makes a total of ten points. Varini has accounted for the only other St. Joe score, a touchdown.

Dr. E. E. Litkenhous, who conducts a system which mathematically rates every football team in the nation, rated St. Joe at 56.7 last Thursday. Toledo rated 59.3, making the Ohioans favorites to win by approximately 3 points. It was just the opposite. Loras, the Pumas' next opponent, was listed at 49.0.

Nig Pfeffer, former star in baseball and basketball at St. Joe, who played third base for Akron in the Mid-Atlantic during the season just past, is slated to be moved up to

Victory Leaves SJC Hope For Undefeated Season On Gridiron

Iowa Eleven Ready To Upset Applecart Of Dienhart's Men

Joe Dienhart will lead his Pumas into the Corn State Sunday afternoon and set them free to seek their third straight victory. The Pumas will turn loose on the Loras College Duhawks and attempt to add them to their late-victim list.

The Dien's men face an optimistic ball club in Sunday's battle. The optimistic outlook on the part of the Iowa mentors and fans is due to the return of seventeen lettermen to their roster. Although the returning lettermen are vets of last season, most of them are sophomores and have little actual experience. Loras finished third in the Iowa Conference last season with six wins, two defeats, and two ties.

Probable starting lineup for Loras: ends, Jack Sensor and Tom Tierney; tackles, Co-captain Ralph Cornany and Charley Murray; guards, Fred Schneider and John Corcoran; center, Ange Padovic; in the backfield, Co-captain Heinie Engel, Louis Otto, John Mudore, and Larry LaBarge.

Swierczek To Start

Coach Joe Dienhart had only one major change to announce in his starting lineup for Sunday's tussle. Ted Swierczek, who has been doing remarkably well in the fill-in jobs at right half, has been slated to start at left half in place of Curly Wisniewski, who was injured in the Toledo game. Whether Curly will see any action at all depends upon the improvement of his leg injury.

That means that "the seven wonders of the world" will again form that stone wall combination on the line. Lapsys, Varini, Swierczek, Theodosis, and Clark will share most of the backfield work, with Sudrovec and Keehner on hand for reserve.

Kansas City of the American Association in the New York Yankee farm system next spring.

Some of St. Joe's better boxers—Bob Burns, Benny Bladel, the Cavey brothers, and Charles (Termite) Riedel—went through light workouts in Turner hall last Sunday morning.

That enthusiastic welcome the student body gave the team on their return from Toledo was the first mass demonstration of school spirit shown so far this year. A couple of pep sessions during the course of the season wouldn't hurt a thing.

The Athletic Department and the St. Joe grid team received compliments from two prominent University presidents this week. Dr. D. S. Robinson, president of Butler U., and President Nash, of Toledo U., both commended the team and their tormentor for their excellent training in the fundamentals of football and for the clean sportsmanship displayed throughout the games.

The Monogram Club held their first official meeting of the year last Wednesday in the clubroom. Don Clark, member of the club for the past three years and proud possessor of nine major J's, was elected president of the organization. Maurie Gutgsell and Steve Theodosis, the other two senior members of the club, were elected secretary and treasurer, respectively.

Election of the new officers was the major accomplishment of the meeting. A committee to handle the traditional green caps for the freshmen was appointed by the new officers as their first official act. Nick Scollard, Stan Lapsys, and Steve Theodosis were named for the job. The green cap idea is a product of the club's means of raising funds to support their social functions throughout the year.

Preparing For Homecoming

At the present time the officers and club moderator, Father Roof, are busy discussing plans and preparing a committee to handle the Homecoming festivities to be held November 1. The big dance promises to be better than ever before. More definite plans for the affair are to be discussed at the next meeting this week.

A new membership restriction was also inducted into the club's by-laws at the meeting. From now on, only sophomores will be accepted into the honor club.

The Monogram Club is one of the most active organizations on the campus. Their ability to put things over in a big way has been proved time and again by the colorful dances they have sponsored. The most attractive feature on their activity schedule is the gala spring formal held at the close of each scholastic year.

The margin of victory was provided by Nick Scollard's place kick from the 28-yard line with but 8 minutes remaining in the game. In addition to kicking the field goal, the big Irishman was a tower on both offense and defense for St. Joe during the entire game.

Toledo's best performer was Bobby Nash, star Negro halfback, whose running and kicking was tops. Nash had the Pumas in hot water more than once with his long boots which rolled out of bounds deep in our territory.

Puma Defense Works

In the first quarter Toledo penetrated the visitors' 21-yard line with Szlagowski and Wlodzko leading the attack. The Rockets then took to the air, but St. Joe's secondary was alert and the Pumas gained the ball on downs. Nash led another march into the Hoosier's territory in the second period, but this time the Rockets were stopped by a fumble.

St. Joseph's made their first bid for a score when Stan Lapsys returned a punt 41 yards to Toledo's 18. The Rockets' line said no, however, and on fourth down N. Scollard's attempted placement narrowly missed.

The Ohioans were on the offense most of the third period and the early part of the fourth. St. Joe recovered a Rocket fumble on the Pumas' 27-yard line and things began to change. Gilpin got off a nice kick and Toledo had the ball on their own 25. Don Clark, who took over for Wisniewski when Curly hurt his ankle, intercepted a Toledo pass, and a few plays later saw the game-winning kick.

The final gun found St. Joe knocking at the home team's goal line.

Raleigh Club To Present Members With Pins, Keys

At a meeting held last Thursday evening, the Raleigh Smoking club voted to raise annual dues to $1.50 and to present all members with pins, and graduating members with keys.

President Charley Hankish presided at the meeting that lasted over an hour as the problem of raising dues was discussed. The Rev. Clarence Kroekel, C.P.P.S., moderator, spoke briefly, pointing out the numerous improvements in the club over a period of several years.

After the discussion ended, a standing vote was taken on the measure of raising dues, giving pins and keys. The members voted unanimously in favor of the motion.

Huntington K-C Takes Softball Tournament

Playing on a soggy field before a thoroughly chilled gathering, softball teams representing nine Indiana cities competed for a trophy donated by the Indiana State Council of the Knights of Columbus.

After the firing had ceased and the final totals were computed, the Huntington, Indiana, team was declared the winner.

Council Names Hankish

Last Thursday the student council met to choose a student to act as councilman at large. Charles Hankish's name was the first presented. He was immediately chosen by the unanimous consent of the council. Hankish is a senior from Bluffton, Ohio.

Academy I-Q Results

During the past week, Father Pax administered an IQ test to all Academy students. After the scores have been rechecked, each student will receive an individual report on his success with the various parts of the examination, as also a percentile score indicating his ability as compared with the 14,000 high school students who took this same test last year.

The following made the highest scores in their respective classes:

Grade 12: Xavier Hall, William Schenk, Joseph Condich, William Volk; Academy, Robert Gross, Thomas Fox, Max Schmid.

Grade 11: Academy, Robert Richert, Robert Meiners, Robert Niese.

Grade 10: Academy, James Dobe, J. Raymond Barrett, Aubrey Serewitz.

Grade 9: Academy, Jose Carlos, Michael Cody, Rudy Gildehaus.

Highest honors go to Mr. Schenk, a twelfth grade student, of Xavier Hall. His total score of 143 points out of a possible 160, has in the past been exceeded by only 45 high school students.

Frosh Elect Officers

Last Wednesday, September 24, in the College Auditorium, the freshmen elected their class officers for the coming year.

The following were elected: President, Robert Burns, Ft. Wayne, Indiana; Vice-President, Frank Knisley, Youngstown, Ohio; Secretary, Robert Hogan, Milwaukee, Wisconsin; Treasurer, Henry Kauffmann, Louisville, Kentucky.

The freshmen also elected two of their number to represent them in the Student Council. They are: Richard Trost, Zanesville, Ohio; and Hugh Knochel, Lincoln, Illinois.

Sanguinists Will Print Their Religious Paper

The Sanguinist Club for Catholic Action will hold an election of officers on Monday evening, October 6, and it extends a hearty welcome to new members.

It was announced that this year the club will publish a bi-monthly, four-page religious bulletin. The bulletin will be free to all students, and will be printed this year rather than mimeographed.

Albertus Magnus Seeks Prospective Members

A special meeting of the Albertus Magnus Society was held last Thursday evening, Sept. 25. The schedule for the meetings and the programs for the year were discussed.

Applications for membership in the society are now being accepted from the upperclassmen.

Astronomers See Mars

On Friday, October 3, Collegeville will be treated to a show of celestial grandeur when the planet Mars will come within 38,000,000 miles of the earth. The Red Planet will be visible in the southern sky immediately after sunset, and will reach its zenith about midnight.

The Academy Corner

By Joe Wolford

Thursday evening assembly was called for the purpose of taking a psychological examination. The text matter was very similar to that of the entrance exam given college freshmen at the beginning of the school year.

The examination itself consisted of four tests, two of which were of a linguistic nature, the other two of a mathematical design. Fr. Walter Pax, chairman of the school's educational and philosophical department, administered the test. To quote him briefly, "These tests are for the sole purpose of determining a student's intellectual ability. If, for instance, a boy should hit a low level in the mathematic field, he would be advised not to take an engineering course; on the other hand, if he should do fairly well in the language test he would be encouraged to follow a course of that consequence."

Taking advantage of their monthly town-night privilege, academy seniors decided that Friday was the most appropriate of nights because the Rensselaer football squad opposed the Valparaiso eleven then. The game was heartily enjoyed by everyone. There were, however, disheartened faces among the boys since Rensselaer lost 20-0.

Nine managers have responded to Dick Scharf's call to help lay out diamonds, show and take care of the teams partaking in the Whiting softball tourney. The fellows were all members of the high school baseball varsity and since they will have to lose Sunday afternoon town permission, they will resume their freedom on that Sunday evening.

A very complimentary remark was paid to a certain individual during Chemistry class Wednesday morning. When asked by his professor who wrote the book, "Modern Inorganic Chemistry," Bob Rickerts nonchalantly replied, "George Tonner." This Tonner — a brilliant lad!

Celebrating their 7-5 victory over the Oxford nine the St. Joe Cubs dined out Wednesday evening in pioneer fashion by picnicking in the wilderness about five miles out of Oxford. There were weiners, buns, mustard, oranges, bananas, cookies and pop. The only dissatisfied person in the crowd was Lefty Gavin. He was peeved because he only received nine weiners to anchor his abdomen. What a pity.

Minute Observations:

Tom Myers anxiously awaiting a letter from a certain gal in Southern Cal. There is a noted loss of ten inches in Bob MacNamara's waistline. Tom Domic has discovered a new singing prodigy, Red Barrett. Red has sung and resung "The Pirates of Penzance" daily to Tom for a week. The seniors are mighty enthused about the prospect of getting their class rings. Tom Anthony suffered the loss of his old farmer-friend, Fitzgerald.

Incidentally, the academy wants to congratulate Joe Dienhart and the boys for their splendid victory over Toledo U.
